Her Journey

Isha M. Williams

Isha MyTanya Williams was born on November 19, 1962, in Washington D.C. to Patricia Johnson and the late Eugene Williams. Isha departed this life on Thursday, February 15, 2024, at home in Washington, D.C.

Isha attended D.C. public schools and later transferred to Prince George's County schools. Isha worked many years as crisis counselor at a non-profit, For Your Babies Sake to support young mothers in their time of need. Later, she became an independent homecare provider for senior citizens until her health no longer allowed her to do so.

Isha's pride and joy were her Children, Alicia Leake, Angel Brown, Patrice Williams (preceded in death), John Nathan Williams, Amber Williams, Ian Williams, Alexandra Fashaw (bonus daughter), and Austin Fashaw (bonus son). Isha absolutely adored her Grandchildren, Sabien Leake, Savion Williams (preceded in death), Surian and Ihmere Williams. Isha met her first love, Allen Brown in 1975, and they had a long-lasting enduring friendship.

Isha loved, loved the Lord, and accepted Christ as her Lord and Savior at an early age. She read her bible daily. Isha was a beautiful spirit. She was loving, funny, and lively. She was a powerful woman. Her smile and laughter were infectious, Her charisma and charm could win over anyone that she encountered. She was loved by many, and she loved many.

Isha could love you dearly, while also, giving you the raw truth as only she could. Isha was the life of the party wherever she went. She could regularly be found on the dance floor, not caring if she didn't have the rhythm.

Isha enjoyed reading books, listening to music, and watching classic movies.

Love is Forever

They say there is a reason. They say time will heal.
They say GOD knows and it's HIS will.
Neither time nor reason will change that I will always love you! Even though I can't be with you, I feel your spirit giving me strength. One day we'll be together again, until then, you will be in my heart.
I will always be your JoJo. Your loving Sister forever, Jody

Mother

Your jokes brought rooms of people to tears.
Your bellowing laugh brought sunshine to the dimmest days. You were a truth-teller with an undeniable ability to see through veils and speak directly to our hearts, even as we hid behind our smiles. Your love gave life and meaning thereof.
Mother, there was no safer place than to be in your presence. Your absence leaves this world a bit darker, but we will lean on and take care of each other until we are all united again.

Love you, Amber.

Sweet Love

You are finally free at last. You have longed to be free from the heaviness of the then, and the weight of the past.

In remembering you, your beauty was truly something to behold. Your "I love yous" every time and everywhere you'd go will never grow old.

No matter what life threw at you, or the things you had to get through or feel, you pushed through it all.

your love of love in being just the sweetest with a twist of sass and pizzazz.

Sometimes, all we could do is smile and laugh with you.

You had such a butterfly spirit in just wanting to be gently free within it and gracefully fly on by. You can rest assured a bright smile and personality that big will never die. You'll feel her presence in everything you do, just look up and inside. She'll forever be watching over and smiling in pride over you, And if your heart should start to feel weak, place your hand upon your cheek and cherish the sweet memories.

Embrace the "kind of kisses" only Isha could give upon your face.

It's as if you could almost feel and hear her say, "I'm free and at peace".

Trust God in knowing, it's all going to be okay. ~Love, Angie
